

LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Aguilar González, Juan – PhD in Italian Philology from the University of Seville. Currently he is Professor in the Department of Integrated Philologies (Italian) of the University of Seville. He is part of the Research Group “Escritoras y Escrituras” (www.escritorasyescrituras.com), which main researcher is Mercedes Arriaga Flórez. Since 2016 he is part of the EPERFLIT group, “Female writers and characters in literature”, from the University of Salamanca, which main researcher is Milagro Martín Clavijo. He is a member of the University Association of Women's Studies (AUDEM) and of the Spanish Society of Italianists (SEI). His research focuses on female authors of the 16th and 17th centuries in Italy, with special attention to those who participated in the “Querelle des Femmes” and their philological authors.
ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-7715-1921>
Contact: jaguilarg@us.es

Arriaga Flórez, Mercedes – She holds a PhD in Italian Philology from the University of Seville and another PhD in Semiotics from the University of Bari. She is Full Professor of Italian Philology (Department of Integrated Philologies) at the University of Seville. She is main researcher of the Research Group “Escritoras y Escrituras” (www.escritorasyescrituras.com) since the beginning, and she has been main researcher of several competitive research projects in her field. She is the author of many articles, books and book chapters on Gender Studies and Italian Philology.
ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-6039-6949>
Contact: mnarriaga@us.es

Duraccio, Caterina – She holds a PhD in Philological Studies from the University of Seville, in her main line of research “Women, writing and communication”. In 2013 she graduated in European Languages and Literatures from the University of Naples “Federico II” and subsequently completed the master's degree in “Gender Studies and Professional Development” at the University of Seville. She is currently a permanent professor in the Department of Philology and Translation at the Pablo de Olavide University, in Seville. Her research focuses on travel literature, postcolonial Italian literature and LGBTQI literature. She is part of the “Escritoras y Escrituras” Research Group (www.escritorasyescrituras.com), which main researcher is Mercedes Arriaga Flórez.

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-5919-0772>.
Contact: cduraccio@upo.es

Giacobbe, Giuliana Antonella - She holds a PhD in Italian Philology from the University of Oviedo, where she has been a lecturer in the Department of Classical and Romance Philology (Italian Philology) since 2017. Her research career focuses on Italian language and dialectology, as well as on the analysis of the literary discourse of literature written by Italian women between the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. She is a member of the research groups “Female Voices in European Literature and Culture” (VENTURA) of the University of Oviedo, “Women Writers and Writings” (HUM753) of the University of Seville and “Women Writers and Characters in Literature” (EPERFLIT) of the University of Salamanca. In addition, she is a member of the University Association of Women's Studies (AUDEM) and of the Spanish Society of Italianists (SEI).
ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-3035-5422>
Contact: giacobbegiuliana@uniovi.es

López, Martina - International Doctor in Philology from UNED. She is an active member of the Spanish Society of Italianists (SEI) and the University Association of Women's Studies (AUDEM). As a researcher, she follows a coherent and continuous line of research within Italian linguistic and literary studies with an interdisciplinary, historical, social and didactic approach. She is co-author of four monographs for Dykinson and UNED and has published several contributions in high-impact journals, such as Estudios Románicos and Transfer, and in volumes (essays or chapters) in prestigious publishers, such as Comares, Dykinson, University of Salamanca and UNED. She is part of the Research Group “Escritoras y Escrituras” of the University of Seville, which main researcher is Mercedes Arriaga Flórez. Her collaboration in the R&D&I project “Men for Woman” and in the International Research Group “Women Artists and Writers in the Querelle de Femmes” is outstanding, since they are unique projects in the panorama of international Italian studies. She has participated in the organization of many international conferences and courses, has coordinated the MAEQF2022 International Conference and co-directed MAEQF2024.

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-7796-6730>

Contact: mlopez@flog.uned.es

Mascarell García, María - Graduated in Modern Languages and Literature from the University of Granada, specializing in Italian Language and Literature, and with the master's degree in Translation and Interculturality ITA <> ESP at the University of Seville. Student (2022/2023 academic year) in the Department of Integrated Philologies of said university, she is a member of the Research Group “Women Writers and Writings” (HUM753). Since July 2023, she has been part of the R&D Projects “MEN FOR WOMEN: male voices in the “Querelle des Femmes” and “TRANS-ARCH. Archives in Transition: Collective memories and subaltern uses”. Currently, she is a predoctoral researcher at the University of Seville in the Research Line “Women, writing and communication”, and Substitute Professor of Italian Philology of the Department of Language Sciences at the University of Córdoba.

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0003-2717-2796>

Contact: mariaamascarell@outlook.es

Moreno, Eva - PhD from the University of Seville (2018) with the thesis “Victoria Durán: writer and artist of avant-garde theatre”. Associate Professor of the Department of Spanish and Latin American Philology at the University of Seville. She is part of the “Escritoras y Escrituras” Research Group (www.escritorasyescrituras.com), which main researcher is Mercedes Arriaga Flórez.

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-8093-6209>

Contact: emoreno3@us.es

Rodríguez-Mesa, Francisco José - Professor of Italian Philology at the University of Córdoba. His lines of research focus on various aspects of medieval Italian literature, including catalogues of biographies of famous women from the 14th and 16th centuries and the study of Neapolitan lyric poetry from the quattrocento. He also analyses the problems that, from both a theoretical and practical point of view, involve the translation of medieval and Renaissance literary works and their presentation to the contemporary public. He has published more than fifty studies on these aspects, including articles, books and critical editions. In recent years, he has given several seminars as a visiting professor at European and American universities, such as the Università degli Studi di Pavia, the “Sapienza” Università di Roma and the National Autonomous University of Mexico.

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0002-7411-6669>.

Contact: francisco.rodriguez.mesa@uco.es

Tomasi, Giulia - Doctor Europaeus in “Le Forme del Testo” (Università di Trento, 2019), she is currently a Researcher (RtdB) at the Università di Trento (2023-2026) and teaches courses on Spanish Language and Translation. She has worked for three years (2020-2023) within the PRIN project Mapping Chivalry: Spanish Romances of Chivalry from Renaissance to XXI Century, a Digital Approach (2017JA5XAR, Main Researcher: Anna Bognolo), researching literary motifs in Spanish chivalric romances through Digital Humanities tools. She is director, together with Claudia Demattè (Università di Trento), of the MeMoRam database of chivalric motifs. Her research interests also include the study of literary translation, with a particular interest in the relations between Spain and Italy and children's and young adult literature. She has published several books and articles on these topics in specialized journals. She has also edited the chivalric comedy Don Florisel de Niquea by Juan Pérez de Montalbán (Kassel: Reichenberger, 2020).

ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-8248-1706>.

Contact: giulia.tomasi.2@unitn.it

